VOLUME 8 ISSUE 2

In a Nutshell!

The new Academic Year 2022-2023 commenced in the library with receiving funds from University of Mumbai for the SCST Book Bank Scheme.

Our LIRC has been collaborating with all departments for organizing various activities to suit the interest of our students. 11 Quizzes were conducted under the banner of NDLI and NSS, INFT, CMPN and ExTC Departments.

National Reading Day was celebrated with Spin the Book Wheel initiative which gained momentum and leisure reading books were almost out of stock.

Orientation Sessions were conducted for all new students of First Year Engineering. Reading Inspiration Day was celebrated in a very innovative manner this year.

We look forward to many such engaging sessions with all of you in the New Year 2023.

CONSTITUTION DAY OF INDIA ON 26TH NOVEMBER 2022

St. Francis Institute of Technology (Engineering College) celebrated the 73rd National Constitution Day (Samvidhan Divas) with great passion and patriotic fervour on 25.11.22 (Friday). Constitution Day Pledge was administered to all the Faculty Members, Students, and Staff of SFIT and they have taken the online quiz, which aims to sensitize citizens about the significant names, dates, and milestones of the formation of the Indian Constitution in the post Independence era. The event helped students and staff understand the fundamental duties given under the constitution of India and the necessity to abide by the constitution.

The event was planned on November 25 (Friday), between 8.00 am to 2.00 pm. The event took place in all the FE class rooms, Central Library and Reading Room. Our NSS Cell Head – Mr. Paul Fernandes explained about the importance of our moral duties as a responsible citizen of India. He recited the Preamble to all the students and the students repeated after him.

The features of the Preamble are: it states the source from which the Constitution derives its authority; it declares the nation's commitment to secure justice, liberty and equality; it lays down the objectives of the Constitution, and it mentions the territory over which the Constitution shall extend.

Activities Carried Out:

- 1) Reading of the Preamble – Offline

Glimpses

Commemorating the 75th year of Celebration of Independence “Bharat ki Azadi ka Amrut Mahotsav, SFIT-St. Francis Institute of Technology, Mumbai in association with IQAC organised an “E workshop on Mendeley” on 17 September, 2022 at 5.00 pm (IST).

Ms. Amrita Mathur Asst. Prof., INFT Department served as the resource person. Ms. Chinmayee Bhangе, (Librarian) and Workshop In-Charge welcomed Ms. Mathur and the participants to the online Workshop. In her opening remark, she stressed the importance of the workshop to the participants in efficiently preparing their Final Year Project Documentation and also the Manuscripts for possible publication in Journals of Impact.

Ms. Amrita Mathur began her presentations with the installation of the Mendeley Desktop. She introduced Mendeley, its genesis and its usefulness for the scientific writing especially in managing the references. She gave a demo on installation of the Mendeley and engaged all the participants through her step by step guidance on using Mendeley and its various features. In her hour long talk combined with demo, she highlighted the features like Mendeley Web Importer, creating library, Synchronising and organising them. She also demonstrated how to manually add references, annotate and highlight, Search/filter to easily locate documents and add literature as an automatic option. She concluded her talk with useful tips on Do’s and Don’ts that was followed by brief question and answer session that added clarity to the one hour hands on training session. A total of 25 people attended the session from all over India.

Ms. Chinmayee Bhange, Librarian

Reading is recognized as an art capable of transforming man’s life and his entire society. In an age when browsing the net, playing with funky handsets and passing nonstop SMSs seem to be the order of the day, reading a book in a peaceful corner of a library has become an archaic idea for most people. While technology is slowly taking a steady control over individual lives, the reading habit is fast vanishing into thin air.

With an objective of reducing this barrier and introducing persons to reading as a leisure, the sessions were planned for the boys residing in St. Francis Prem Sangh and the House Keeping Staff of St. Francis.

English, Hindi and Marathi newspapers and books with big fonts were kept as a reference source.

13 boys from Prem Sangh and 15 persons from house keeping participated in the sessions. Later, a drawing and painting contest was also conducted for the boys from St. Prem Sangh. 3 winners from each category were selected and appreciated.

“Great Expectations” by Author Charles Dickens

SFIT Library initiated various interesting activities for staffs and staffs family member too. One of the activities called “Spin the Wheel” though mobile app and you will get an interesting non-technical book, which can be even shared with family members. Luckily I got the chance to spin the wheel and got “Short Story section”. Then I selected a small cute book with lots of expectations, hence so the name of the book “Great Expectation”. This book has lots of pictorial representation with story narration.

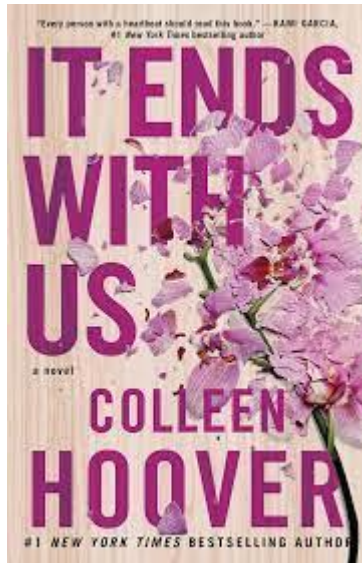

The first few pages itself was quite interesting will grab the attention to the reader. In just a week period book can be complete even if give half an hour reading time.

The summary of the book is as follows:

There was a time in the British Commonwealth when crimes that would formerly have been punished by death were commuted to a sentence of “transportation.” This is to say, the convicted criminals were packed into prison-ships and banished to Australia, to become forced colonists. There they led such a hard life that only the toughest succeeded—but even the most successful colonials would have gone home to England, if they could have. And that’s why the second half of their punishment was an automatic sentence of death if they ever came back.

It is at this time in history, in a village close to the marshes along a stretch of the Thames River where the prison-ships anchored, narrator “Pip” cites his earliest memories. He begins his adventures while still a small orphan boy, terrorized by the older sister who has “brought him up by hand,” and comforted only by the affection of an earthy, humble brother-in-law, a blacksmith named Joe. One day young Pip falls into the clutches of an escaped convict hiding in the marshes. Trembling under the convict’s threats, the boy steals food from his sister and a file from Joe’s forge and brings them to the manacled escapee. And though his conscience torments him, and he fears being found out as a thief and accomplice to a fleeing criminal (at least, until the convict is recaptured), Pip does not realize until years later how much this encounter will shape his life.

“If there’s no love attached to the pain, the pain would be a little easier to bear.”

Lily Bloom, a young, care-free girl, has recently graduated from college and moved to Boston leaving behind her traumatic past to start a new life. Wherein she encounters an enticer, young neurosurgeon, Ryle Kincaid, who is deterministic, arrogant and has his own dark past. Gradually, a sparkle of love ignites between them until their fate says otherwise. Alongside, in her free time, Lily rereads the journal from her past about her parents relationship which in turn affects her own future relationship and her first love Atlas Corrigan, who played a vital role in her childhood days. Lily’s life turns upside down when unexpectedly Atlas resurfaces leaving a taint in her present relationship with Ryle. ‘It Ends With Us’ is a gut-wrenching, contemporary young-adult fiction and deeply personal story written by Colleen Hoover showcasing a perspective of being unconditionally loved whilst paying a hefty price.

This story illustrates domestic abuse. From the first line itself, I was imbibed into it. From storyline to plots and its plot twists, I replaced Lily’s (author’s) narrative with mine. The drifting of emotions while traveling through different timelines is what made me engrossed in it. The way Lily witnessed the violent relationship between her parents is the same unfortunate way she had to experience it with Ryle. She finds herself within the same position as her mother was in all those years ago, she all at once feels much more connected and understanding of her mother’s decisions.

I liked the way the author portrays Lily as a strong-willed woman, balancing her current bond while uncovering her past. There were scenes unveiling Ryle’s dark side making the story much more unpredictable. Having said that, it made me a little sad hearing about Ryle. Even though he had a dreadful childhood, it’s not his fault entirely. In the matter of fact, he has been seeking aids to tackle his problem; yet he’s the faulty guy.

The story helped me to weigh value over love for every decision I take as values are stable over time and supported by a sense of character. Loving someone makes you emotionally dependent but always one should have their personal space left untouched. It might seem simple from outside but it is painstaking from inside.

Usually, contemporary fictions talk about a guy meeting a girl and all the joyous moments occur between them. But this book talks particularly about what comes after that and how to deal with it. In a nutshell, the readers can relate to the emotions of every character. The importance of individualism, conditional love and standing against domestic abuse is well depicted throughout. As the author is well-known for the heart-throbbing ending, it indeed has one which is quite an eye-opener and inspirational. I would give 5/5 stars. It definitely is a must-read for the YA readers or people who are into mature romantic novels.

‘Outstanding leaders go out of their way to boost the self-esteem of their personnel .If people believe in themselves ,it's amazing what they can accomplish ‘.,these words by Sam Walton mentioned in the 4th part of the book very accurately explains how a leader like Sundar Pichai was born .I especially loved the part when Larry page said in his words about the significant role Pichai played in shaping the world famous company like GOOGLE. According to him a key part of this(restructuring of Google and formation of Alphabet)is Sundar Pichai. Sundar has been saying the things I would have said (and sometimes better!).For quite some time now ,and I have been tremendously enjoying our work together. He has really stepped since October of last year ,when he took on product engineering responsibility for our Internet business. Surgery and I have been super excited about this progress and dedication to the company .

I had a great experience by reading this book because it not only summarized the journey of an IIT boy who made it from Chennai but a man who was fond of gully cricket, a dreamer whose idea was yet to shine through Chrome that the world wanted but also knowing that he was a guy with the ‘Midas touch’ clearly evoked my insight into thinking how well the author has planned the book though it contained huge chunks of classic technological companies and their data and their business beautifully blended with google and its current CEO.

I believe this book is meant for people in all walks of life and especially students because it clearly lets one know that a man with a vision and passion will make it no matter the circumstances because they are just meant to grow the best out of him.
